

APACHE '71

If Solid State doesn't get you...

...solid comfort will.

Solid State means no canvas. Solid Walls. Solid Roof. Solid Windows. Solid State means added protection. Added months of camping. Added years of useful trailer life. And there's more. Solid comfort inside to make traveling and camping more comfortable, more fun. With new floor plans. New fabrics. New decor. New features.

You can choose from four new Solid State Apache models for 1971. There are a wide variety of floor plans and built-ins to choose from that will comfortably accommodate up to eight people.

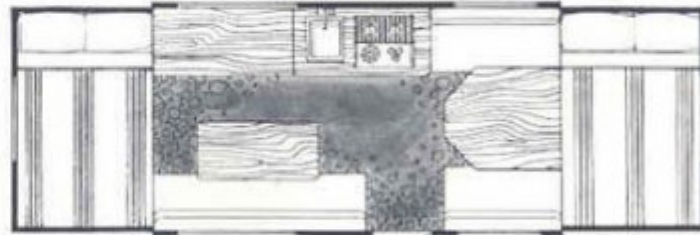

Starting at the top, here they are:

RAMADA $1845 per/night

You'd never guess that the buttoned-down Ramada is the roomy home on wheels it craves up to be. A new gear-operated lifting mechanism quickly raises the roof and solid walls of rugged ABS thermoplastic. A new concept in trailering that means added protection and safety for you and your family and lets you add months to your camping season.

The Ramada interior resembles a home more than a camping trailer. It features two 35" high cabinets, constructed of rigid, easy-to-clean prefinished aluminum, placed side by side to provide an unusual amount of counter-top surface, with storage below. One cabinet contains the stainless-steel sink and three-burner range that are just the right height for efficient use. The cabinet is conveniently located below. Table and cabinet tops are a rich-cooking, wood-grain Textolite that's easy to keep clean.

The two double beds are longer this year. And the dinette, that seats four, converts into a bed for two. In addition, there's the gaucho couch that's great for lounging, yet it makes into another double bed when needed. Or put the pedestal-mounted table in place and you have another dinette for four. Just like that.

The entrance door is completely self-storing and remains attached to the wall even when folded down for traveling. Six sliding, screened windows let you adjust ventilation as you like, from the inside. All are framed with colorful drapes for good looks, and privacy when you want it.

Crink up to a lot of solid enjoyment, wouldn't you say? (More features on page 10.)

RAMADA SPECIFICATIONS:
 Body Length: 17'
 Body Width: 6'7"
 Floor Height: 58 1/2"
 Tire: 20 x 8.00 x 12"

The Mesa and Yuma exteriors are identical. And the end dinettes are similar in each model. The four-inch-thick cushions become the mattress when dinette is made into a double bed.

MESA $1545 plus freight

Solid State exterior. Solid walls. Solid roof. Solid windows. Better insulation and greater sound proofing qualities. That's the new Solid State Mesa.

Solid comfort interior. Two big double beds and a four-place dinette that converts to a double bed provide sleeping for six. Galley cabinet of prefinished aluminum features storage area below and full 35" height for efficient access to the stainless-steel sink and range. Icebox, water-storage tank and gas bottle assembly is included. There's much more, plus a very reasonable price. Compare the Mesa with any other make. We're confident that you'll join the Apache tribe. (More standard features - page 10.)
