One of Apache's Outstanding Features is Not a Tent
It's generally thought that a folding trailer utilizes tenting to surround the bed and upper walls. The Apache Solid State construction eliminates the inherent problems with tenting. Apache's tough Rovel Thermoplastic is not subject to shrinking, seams tearing, mildew or broken zippers. Rugged Rovel gives you a stable, dry, comfortable and secure place for you and your family and only Apache gives you this solid security in the bed ends where you sleep.

Apache's attention to solid construction doesn't stop there. The supporting structure of the body and roof is aluminum. It's easy to get in and out of an Apache which has the widest door in the industry. Notice the high, easy to work at counter tops. The list goes on and on. Look Apache over carefully, try to compare. You'll find there is no comparison. Honest Injun.

Ramada

The Ramada's popularity is attributable to its capacity to sleep 8 people and its 14.5 sq. ft. of usable counter-top surface, and oodles of storage space below. The gaucho is a couch, a dining area and opens into a 3' x 6' bed.

You won't ever feel closed-in in a Ramada.

Ranger

Wow, what a kitchen! It's functional and provides plenty of counter space (22 sq. ft.). The side dinette offers a different perspective of the outdoors. This floor plan also provides easy access to both beds. The adjoining couch and dinette make for an ideal conversation area, and they quickly convert into a whopping 6'Wx6'5'L bed.

Royal

It would take a separate brochure to adequately cover all of the Royal's features. Start with a large shower, 6 gallon hot water heater, demand water pump, and much more. Plus a solid wall between dressing room and living area to give you two separate rooms for privacy when you want it. Everything is here including the kitchen sink. A portable toilet is standard or you can add the optional flush toilet with built-in 9 gallon holding tank. The Royal is also available without the shower. In its place is additional cabinet space and a wardrobe.

Cimarron

The Cimarron features a unique side bathroom fully enclosed with solid wall. It provides you with the necessities and privacy you wouldn't expect to see in a folding trailer. A portable toilet is standard for you can add the optional flush toilet with built-in 9 gallon holding tank. Fresh water is supplied through the demand water pump.

Mesa R

The Mesa R and Mesa S are approximately 18" shorter than the other solid states. The shorter length and different style road cover are the major differences. The Mesa has the solid state bed ends and side walls. Large sliding radius windows with screens and designer draperies are standard. You'll find the aluminum gear lift system, four attached leveling legs, 3/4" tongue and groove plywood flooring, and the list goes on... The Mesa is available in a rear dinette (R) or side dinette (S) floor plan. The Unique side dinette allows walk up access to both bed ends.

Mesa S

Why You Should Invest in Apache Rather than a Conventional Travel Trailer...

Towing Ease. The lighter weight and lower profile of Apache trailers make them more easily, and economically, towed by a greater range of motor vehicles.

Living Area. Apache gives you the living area of a 24' travel trailer. And the permanent bed areas eliminate the need to daily make dinettes into beds and back again.

Value. The innovative engineering that goes into every Apache to give you more quality features costs more, and is worth more, just as the cost of a convertible auto higher than that of a standard sedan.

...or a Regular Folding Trailer with Tenting.

Security and Comfort. The Solid State construction provides a sturdy, secure and comfortable home to make your camping experiences memorable ones.

Features and Construction. Apaches are loaded with special features like premium grade exterior plywood floors topped with attractive high-grade vinyl. Solid oak frames the cabinet doors.

Value. As the saying goes, you get what you pay for. These outstanding features, plus Solid State construction, mean you get more out of your Apache while you own it and more in dollars, if you sell it.
